

Affiliation:

Professor, Division of Preventive Dentistry, Graduate School of Medical and Dental Sciences Niigata University, Japan

Director, WHO Collaborating Centre for Translation of Oral Health Science (JPN-75)

Biography

Dr. Hiroshi Ogawa received his bachelor's degree in dentistry from the Nihon University in Japan in 1994. He also holds a master's degree in Public Health Dentistry from the University of Sydney in Australia. Moreover, he earned his doctorate in Preventive Dentistry from the Niigata University in Japan. He has been the Head and Professor at the Graduate School of Medical and Dental Sciences, Niigata University. Dr. Ogawa has held various positions at the World Health Organization (WHO) since 2003. Dr. Ogawa worked as a dental officer for the WHO Oral Health Programme at the Geneva headquarters between 2014 and 2017. He currently serves as the head of WHO Collaborating Centre for Translation of Oral Health Sciences, and as a member of the WHO Clinical Consortium on Healthy Aging. He has been a member of the Council at the World Dental Federation (FDI) since 2023.